Massachusetts Bar Association president David W. White Jr. today announced the formation of an Energy and Environment Task Force.

The task force will oversee the MBA Lawyers Eco-Challenge, an initiative unveiled in September that urges lawyers to change the way they think and act while conducting business in order to conserve energy and resources, the MBA said.

The Conservation Law Foundation, an environmental advocacy group, has agreed to collaborate with the MBA on the Eco-Challenge, the MBA said.

The co-chairs for the Energy and Environment Task Force are Susan M. Reid, a foundation staff attorney, and Nancy Reiner, a partner at Brown Rudnick in Boston, the MBA said.
