CHAPTER 93L.

UNIFORM TRADE SECRETS ACT.

Section 1. As used in this chapter, the following words shall have the following meanings unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

“Improper means”, without limitation, theft, bribery, misrepresentation, unreasonable intrusion into private physical or electronic space or breach or inducement of a breach of a confidential relationship or other duty to limit acquisition, disclosure or use of information; provided, however, that “improper means” shall not include reverse engineering from properly accessed materials or information.

“Misappropriation”, (i) the acquisition of a trade secret of another by a person who knows, or who has reason to know, that the trade secret was acquired by improper means; or (ii) the disclosure or use of a trade secret of another without that person’s express or implied consent by a person who: (A) used improper means to acquire the trade secret; or (B) at the time of the disclosure or use, knew or had reason to know that the trade secret was acquired: (1) through a person who had utilized improper means to acquire it; (2) under circumstances giving rise to a duty to limit its acquisition, disclosure or use; or (3) through a person who owed a duty to the person seeking relief to limit its acquisition, disclosure, or use; or (C) before a material change of such person’s position, knew or had reason to know that what was disclosed was a trade secret and that such person’s knowledge of the trade secret had been acquired by accident, mistake or through another person’s act described in subclause (A) of clause (ii) or subclauses (1) or (2) of subclause (B) of said clause (ii).

“Person”, a natural person, corporation, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, association, joint venture, government, governmental subdivision or agency or any other legal or commercial entity.

“Trade secret”, specified or specifiable information, whether or not fixed in tangible form or embodied in any tangible thing, including, but not limited to, a formula, pattern, compilation, program, device, method, technique, process, business strategy, customer list, invention or scientific, technical, financial or customer data that, at the time of the alleged misappropriation:
(i) provided an economic advantage, actual or potential, from not being generally known to, and not being readily ascertainable by proper means by, others who might obtain economic advantage from its acquisition, disclosure or use; and (ii) was the subject of efforts that were reasonable under the circumstances to protect against the acquisition, disclosure or use of such information without the consent of the person properly asserting rights therein or such person’s predecessor in interest including, but not limited to, reasonable notice.
Section 2. (a) Actual or threatened misappropriation may be enjoined upon principles of equity including, but not limited to, consideration of prior conduct and the circumstances of potential use, upon a showing that information qualifying as a trade secret has been or is threatened to be misappropriated. Upon application to the court, an injunction shall be terminated when the trade secret has ceased to exist; provided, however, that the injunction may be continued for an additional reasonable period of time if necessary to eliminate any economic advantage that otherwise would be derived from such misappropriation.

(b) In exceptional circumstances, an injunction may condition future use upon payment of a reasonable royalty for no longer than the period of time for which use could have been prohibited. For the purposes of this subsection, “exceptional circumstances” shall include, but are not limited to, a material and prejudicial change of position prior to acquiring the knowledge or reason to know of misappropriation that renders a prohibitive injunction inequitable.

(c) In appropriate circumstances, affirmative acts to protect a trade secret may be compelled by court order.

Section 3. (a) Except to the extent that a material and prejudicial change of position prior to acquiring the knowledge or reason to know of misappropriation renders a monetary recovery inequitable, a complainant is entitled to recover damages for misappropriation. Damages can include both the actual loss caused by misappropriation and the unjust enrichment caused by misappropriation that is not taken into account in computing actual loss. In lieu of damages measured by any other methods, the damages caused by misappropriation may be measured by the imposition of liability for a reasonable royalty for the unauthorized disclosure or use of a trade secret.
(b) If willful and malicious misappropriation exists, the court may award exemplary damages in an amount not exceeding twice any award made under subsection (a).

Section 4. The court may award reasonable attorney’s fees and costs to the prevailing party if: (i) a claim of misappropriation is made or defended in bad faith; (ii) a motion to enter or to terminate an injunction is made or resisted in bad faith; or (iii) willful and malicious misappropriation exists. In considering such an award, the court may take into account the claimant’s specification of trade secrets and the proof that such alleged trade secrets were misappropriated.

Section 5. (a) In an action under this chapter, a court shall preserve the secrecy of an alleged trade secret by reasonable means, which may include granting protective orders in connection with discovery proceedings, holding in-camera hearings, sealing the records of the action or ordering any person involved in the litigation not to disclose an alleged trade secret without prior court approval.

(b) In an action alleging misappropriation, a party shall state with reasonable particularity the circumstances thereof, including the nature of the trade secret and the basis for its protection. Before commencing discovery relating to an alleged trade secret, the party alleging misappropriation shall identify the trade secret with sufficient particularity under the circumstances of the case to allow the court to determine the appropriate parameters of discovery and to reasonably enable other parties to prepare their defense.

Section 6. An action alleging misappropriation must be brought not more than 3 years after the misappropriation was discovered or should have been discovered by the exercise of reasonable diligence. For the purposes of this chapter, a continuing disclosure or use constitutes a single claim.

Section 7. (a) Except as provided in subsection (b), this chapter shall supersede any conflicting laws of the commonwealth that provide civil remedies for misappropriation.

(b) This chapter shall not affect: (i) contractual remedies; provided, however, that, to the extent such remedies are based on an interest in the economic advantage of information claimed to be confidential, such confidentiality shall be determined according to the definition of trade secret in section 1 and the terms and circumstances of the underlying contract shall be considered in such determination; (ii) remedies based on submissions to governmental units; (iii) other civil remedies to the extent that they are not based upon misappropriation; or (iv) criminal remedies, whether or not based upon misappropriation.

Section 8. This chapter shall be applied and construed to effectuate its general purpose of making uniform the law with respect to the subject of this chapter among states enacting it.

(iii) the target requested information described in clause (i) that was not included in the demand letter and the person failed to provide the information within a reasonable period of time;
(iv) the demand letter demanded payment of a license fee or response within an unreasonably short period of time;

(ix) the patent has been held invalid or unenforceable in a final judgment or administrative decision.

(b) A court may consider the following factors as evidence that a person has not made an assertion of patent infringement in bad faith: (i) the demand letter contained the information described in clause (i) of subsection (a); (ii) the target requested such information described in clause (i) of subsection (a) that was not included in the demand letter and the person provided the information within a reasonable period of time; (iii) the person engaged in a good faith effort to establish that the target has infringed the patent and to negotiate an appropriate remedy; (iv) the person made a substantial investment in the use of the patent or in the production or sale of a product or item covered by the patent; (v) the person is: (A) the inventor or joint inventor of the patent or, in the case of a patent filed by and awarded to an assignee of the original inventor or joint inventor, is the original assignee; (B) an institution of higher education or a technology transfer organization owned or affiliated with an institution of higher education; or (C) a non-profit research institute or organization which has as one of its primary functions the management of inventions on behalf of an institute of higher education or a non-profit research institute or organization; (vi) the person makes significant investments in: (A) research and development in connection with the patented technology, where development means technical or experimental work to create, test, qualify, modify or validate technologies or processes for commercialization of goods or services; (B) manufacturing; or (C) the delivery or provision of goods or commercial services using the patented technology; and (vii) the person’s business is the licensing of patents as a wholly-owned subsidiary of a person described in clause (vi).

Section 3. (a) A target or a person aggrieved by a violation of this chapter or by a violation of rules adopted under this chapter may bring an action in superior court against a person who has made a bad-faith assertion of patent infringement. The court may award to a plaintiff who prevails in an action brought pursuant to this subsection one or more of the following remedies: (i) equitable relief; (ii) damages; (iii) costs and fees, including reasonable attorneys' fees; and (iv) exemplary damages in an amount equal to $50,000 or three times the total of damages, costs, and fees, whichever is greater; provided, however, that exemplary damages shall not be awarded against a person described in subclause (B) or (C) of clause (v) of section 2 or clause (vi) of subsection (b) of said section 2.

(b) Any person who by contract, agreement, or otherwise, directly or indirectly, arranged for the bad faith assertion of patent infringement and any person who otherwise caused or is legally responsible for such bad faith assertion of patent infringement under the principles of the common law shall be liable to a prevailing plaintiff for all damages, costs and fees. Such liability shall be joint and several.

(c) A court may award to a defendant who prevails in an action brought pursuant to this section costs and fees, including reasonable attorneys' fees, if the court finds the action was not well-grounded in fact and warranted by existing law or was interposed for any improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation

(d) This chapter shall not be construed to limit rights and remedies otherwise available under law to the commonwealth or to any person.

Section 4. The attorney general shall have the same authority under this chapter to make rules, conduct civil investigations, bring civil actions and enter into assurances of discontinuance as provided under chapter 93A. In an action brought by the attorney general pursuant to this
